

As a consumer, the banks/credit card companies are the exact folks I do not want calling me regarding new banking products. We receive enough promotions in the mail and e-mail - The only relationship that should be honored for phone calls is late payments or disputes in service...NOT "Hey we have this new service for you..for a fee..: